More information with easier navigation and quicker access

Scottsdale, AZ — November 11, 2008 —MWA Intelligence launched its new dynamic website at www.mwaintelligence.com. The new site has a cleaner look, simpler navigation, improved information architecture and it allows for flexible and rapid content changes. The new site also provides a great opportunity for improved, interactive communication through our website blog @ MWAi Talks. The site was designed to provide the most up-to-date technology news to our customer and the marketplace.

"The new website gives us the foundation to demonstrate our M2M (machine-to-machine) and M2P (machine-to-people) technology solutions and services in an intuitive fashion to our members today and well into the future," said Victoria Satran, Vice President of Marketing.

The new website focuses on M2M technologies and automation, and MWAi's offering in this area, which has been in even greater demand in today's economic environment. It also clearly demonstrates that MWAi offers a unique and powerful solution portfolio that delivers a real-time and fully-automated integration of imaging devices, mobile workforce, service management and ERP/CRM systems in an enterprise. The site very effectively paints the picture of the benefits you receive upon joining the thousands of MWAi customers.
