

MWA Intelligence & Print Control Software/ROI Print Manager (PCS)
Announce Planned Acquisition of PCS
Partners move to a new level that will continue to dominate the managed print services market.

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — March 17, 2009 — MWA Intelligence, Inc. (MWAi), a leader in remote asset management tools and mobile workforce automation systems and services, and Print Control Software / ROI Print Manager (PCS) announced today the planned acquisition of PCS by MWAi to be completed later in 2009. PCS is a leading provider of end-user management software applications. The companies' combined strengths in the areas of engineering, research and development, professional services and support, as well as the tremendous depth facilitated by a joint product offering, will set new standards in the device and document management market space.

“As companies across every industry continue to look for ways to combat volatile economic conditions, increased competition and more complex operating environments, an optimized printer fleet and reduced document spend are must-haves,” said Michael T. Stramaglio, CEO and President of MWA Intelligence, Inc. “Bringing these two talented teams and robust solution sets together is a natural next step for both our organizations.”

The Managed Print Services market demands software tools that can streamline and expedite processes, cutting costs without cutting productivity. Combining the proven technologies of MWAi's device management and PCS' ROI user management solution suites provide complete control over any business' print environment that is both comprehensive and easily implemented allowing for widespread adoption and ongoing utilization. MWAi Intelligent Dashboard™ provides real-time feedback on equipment status to ensure maximum up-time and productivity, while ROI Print Manager delivers detailed reporting on usage and volume to help establish rules-based-routing workflows that drive print volumes to the most cost-efficient solution.

“Clients are demanding comprehensive solutions and holistic support, and together we are prepared to deliver,” said Shane Hannan, Director of PCS. “Our enhanced Managed Print Services offering, built from the inherent synergies of our overall operations, product development and support capabilities, means powerful solutions with global coverage for our customers. We are driven to provide the best products and support in the industry - this has and will continue to be an important key to our success.”
